

At ScholarTree, we are committed to continually improving how students find scholarships and increasing the number of scholarships available to students studying in Canada. We have heard first hand from students this summer the financial impact Covid-19 has had on their family financial situation, which has only made us want to work harder.

A handful of the larger scholarships are available right at the start of the school year, so we encourage students to start applying right away.

Here are a couple of significant scholarships that are available now:
